About The Burglar With Very Smelly Feet.

Boss and Wife, the loving owners of Morgie and Peej decide to go away for the weekend to a nice hotel for a break. They ask Britney to come and look after Morgie and Peej. She is a nice girl who works with Wife but she keeps company with this strange character, Robbo, who unbeknown to her to is wanted by the Police for the burglary of dozens of homes.

When Britney arrives at the house with Robbo for dinner a few days before Boss and Wife's holiday, the dogs take an instant dislike to him and his stinky feet. They instinctively do not trust him and feel he is up to no good.

The night that Britney is supposed to dog-sit she gets diverted and the dogs end up home alone.

The get hungry and so Morgie figures out a unique way of opening cans of their favourite lamb and vegetable stew dog food (a very useful technique if you are a dog).

That same night Robbo, tries to break into the house with intentions of stealing some valuables.

Morgie and Peej, while defending the house, have to find a way of letting Boss know that they are alone and that things are not as they should be. Of course all works out well in the end and Morgie and Peej are able to help the Police identify Robbo as the wanted burglar.

These is a happy humorous story that has been crafter around the 5 to 10 age group but will be suitable for a much wider range of readers.

The social messages conveyed in this book are valuable life lessons for kids of all ages.

The author, Jane Meadows has created some memorable characters that children will love. Illustrator Mallory Anderson has once more demonstrated her great talents with her beautiful and whimsical full color illustrations.
